

SPECIAL SECTION

Applied Linguistics in Practice: Insights Across Personal and Public Domains

This Special Section comprises six papers which exhibit how linguistics can help us understand and offer solutions to real life problems. Bringing into perspective everyday language usage in both personal and public domains, the articles identify language related causes and put forth solutions to real life concerns such as in the field of language education, literary studies, professional communication, political communication, and discourse analysis.